A SHEENFUL CROWN OF NEW LISERE

This new summer hat is very exclusive with its crown of sheenful lisere. The band of rose buds at the base of the crown pleasingly conceals the origin of that brim of tinted satin which casts its colorful glow in reflected light, on lady's face. The short brim on the left and back gives the model a chic appearance—almost inclined to rakishness.

FAMILIES AND FIRESIDES

According to Stone and Webster, there were 23,292,887 families in existence in the United States in 1910, and the number of dwellings in the country was 20,263,051. In 1920 there were 25,319,443 families and 20,900,000 dwellings. While families have been increasing in healthy manner, showing an increase of 2,026,597 in the period covered, the number of dwellings has increased but 636,940. Dwellings, we assume, mean places of all kinds where families live—with or without the conveniences that are called "modern." From these figures it seems plain that if the country was caught up on its housing facilities in 1910, that it is now short a million to a million and a half houses. Pittsburgh is reported 10,000 houses short, and Detroit is two or three times as bad off.

"The great activity in building operations which was expected on the return of peace has not materialized," says the Stone and Webster Journal. And then there follows this comment: "Why should it? The wages of the building trades are receiving are almost prohibitive and they are demanding still more, so that no contractor will take a lump sum contract. Building materials have advanced—not the 25 per cent intimated in the case of the landlord as being profiteering high—but 100 per cent or more, and no one will say that the end is yet in sight."

The wide contrasts between the number of families and the supply of firesides is surely lamentable, but there is little to indicate that there is any probability of relief in sight. The law of supply and demand has evidently been upset by price-fixing, profiteering, and too much regulating by the Government, and perhaps after awhile new roosts will be created for homeless heads.

UNDER THE WIRE

There were mutinous murmurs aboard a certain merchantman when word spread among the crew that the ship would not, after all, put in at Tahiti, but merely drop the mail over and go on. Tahiti, being French soil, is a little island of liquor in mid-Pacific, and the thirsty men aboard had been lying awake nights thinking of the drinks that lay ahead.

The disappointment was too much for one seaman, who, uttering a plaintive cry, leaped into the sea and started to swim for the visible shore. The captain, much vexed and a little envious, ordered the best swimmer in the crew to go after him and bring him back before he reached land. An excited lookout kept all on deck posted on the progress of the race.

"He's gaining! He's gaining! Two hundred yards—a hundred yards—fifty yards. In a dozen strokes he'll have him. Five more strokes! A yard to go. . . . Great guns!"

"What is it? What is it?"

"Great guns, sir, he's passed him!"

Booze Is Not a Good Cure.

From the Ames Iowa Intelligencer. When a man comes to you all doubled up with pain and declares he will die in your presence unless you procure him a drink of whiskey, send him to a doctor or else give him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. There is a mistaken notion among a whole lot of people that booze is the best remedy for colic and stomach ache. Obtainable everywhere.

STILL TIME TO MAKE GARDEN

The unusually cold wet spring has set back gardeners very seriously, but there is still time to plant some vegetables, according to J. T. Rosa Jr., of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. High prices and the reduced planting of vegetables makes this late planting all the more important. Some profitable crops to plant before the first of July are: Snap beans, sweet corn, late tomatoes, late cabbage, cucumbers, beets and other root vegetables. When seed are planted at this late season, the germination will be better if the seed are soaked in water over night before planting. Late planted vegetables must be carefully cultivated, and irrigated whenever possible. Water is the big factor in growing vegetables in summer. Two crops which should be planted now to produce late summer and fall greens are Swiss chard and New Zealand spinach, as these vegetables are quite resistant to heat and drought. Late Irish potatoes may be planted about the first week in July in central Missouri.

In August, several vegetables can be planted for fall and winter use. Kale and spinach are suggested for use as greens at that season. Leaf lettuce and Chinese cabbage for salads, and turnips, rutabagas, beets and carrots are root crops which can be stored.

Best Remedy for Stomach Trouble.

"I am pleased to have the opportunity to say a good word for Chamberlain's Tablets," writes Mrs. Mamie Bertel of Moberly, Mo. "I think they are the best remedy for stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation I have ever used. I have taken them off and on for two or three years and they always relieve indigestion, tone up the liver and make me feel fine. Obtainable everywhere." (adv.)

PROBLEMS FOR THE WISEACRES

Besides the election of a President and Vice-President there are other incidental matters that the electors of the country will be called on to settle. Four hundred and thirty-five Representatives in Congress are to be selected. At present the majority in the lower branch of Congress is Republican, but most of the time during recent years it has been Democratic. It will be a fight in every Congressional district to turn the balance. Thirty-three Senators are to be chosen. At the present time the party strength stands 49 Republicans, 46 Democrats and one vacancy. Based upon the complexion of party control in the thirty-two States having elections the Republicans appear to have the best of matters, but the Democrats, who have been "sorter laying low," have quit conceding anything, and they are getting ready for their San Francisco to match up with the Republican Chicago. The results of next November may look easy to political partisans, but the wiseacres who wear out lead pencils and smash adding machines in making their calculations are free to admit that the contest throughout the country does not give any assurances of a walk-away to either side.

Excitable Mother

Mother thinks a feller ought to never do a thing. Like climbin' trees or playin' ball or standin' in a swing. An' once she looked an' caught me on a horizontal bar When I was hanging by my legs, an' then she yelled for Pa. An' made him come an' stop me coz she said 'at I'd be hurt. An' anyway that's how I ripped the buttons off my shirt. But Pa he only chuckled an' he said right off the bat, "It doesn't seem like forty years since I was doin' that."

Mother's awful scary, she's afraid 'at I'll be killed. She almost fainted yesterday because my wagon spilled. An' threw me on the sidewalk, an' I barked my shins an' knees. An' the blood begun a-spurtin' like the sap from maple trees; When Pa came home she showed him every place where I was hurt. An' told him how I hollered when she scrubbed away the dirt. But Pa he looked me over an' saw how I was skinned. An' he didn't scold or nothin', but he jus' sat there an' grinned.

I'm as careful as I can be, but you can't have any fun. If you never climb or nuthin', an' a feller's got to run. An' sometimes fight or rattle, an' he can't help gettin' hurt. An' he forgets how easy buttons rip off of a shirt; Why, Ma gets all excited when I get a bloody nose. But Pa was once a boy himself an' he knows how it goes. An' when Ma makes me show him how I've cut an' scraped my shins, Pa never scolds or nuthin'—he jus' looks at me an' grins.
